

THE NOVEMBER COURT

SAW THREE LIQUOR CASES TRIED IN CRIMINAL COURT.

Three Cases Involving Claimed Damages of $31,500 Were First Civil Cases Tried.

The constables were first called at the opening of the November Court on Monday and made their returns. In Liberty township a bastard child was reported and process was awarded for Samuel Baumgardner, reputed father. In Abbottstown a bastard child was reported born and process was awarded for Harry Lippey, reputed father, and in Berwick township, a bastard child was reported born and process was awarded for James Laughman, reputed father.

Roads were reported in bad condition and the Court ordered process for Supervisors of Straban township, Mt. Joy township, Germany township, Mt. Pleasant township, Littleton township, Franklin township, Butler township, and Hamiltonban township.

Arthur C. Sentz, of Mt. Joy township, and H. V. Klunk, of Mt. Pleasant township, were appointed tipstaves for the November Court.

The list of Grand Jurors were called and sworn and George W. Chritzman was appointed foreman.

Chas. W. Baum, who was convicted of wantonly pointing a pistol at Director of the Poor Hall and whose motion for a new trial was overruled, appeared in Court and was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and the costs. He was an officer of the State Game Commission and the fine and costs were paid.

Stewart McFerren plead guilty to operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and was sentenced to $100 fine and the costs. The Grand Jury found true bills upon six indictments as follows:

Com. vs. George Treadway and William Chronister, charged with illegal possession of liquor, was found a true bill.

Com. vs. Paul O'Kul, charged with manufacturing, selling and offering for sale intoxicating liquors, was found a true bill.

Com. vs. Robert Godfrey, charged with manufacturing, selling and offering for sale intoxicating liquors, was found a true bill.

Com. vs. William E. Shafer, charged with pointing a gun, was found a true bill.

Com. vs. Jack Martin, charged with manufacturing, selling and offering for sale, etc., intoxicating liquors, was found a true bill.

Com. vs. I. Bender and A. Wertz, charged with manufacturing, selling and offering for sale, etc., intoxicating liquors, was found a true bill.

Alleged violations of the liquor laws resulted in three jury trials in the Quarter Sessions Court.

Com. vs. Joseph Galbraith was the first case tried, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. The trial began on Monday and was concluded on Tuesday with a verdict that the defendant was not guilty as indicted. Costs of case to be paid by Joseph Galbraith.

Com. vs. George Treadway and William Chronister was next tried on charge of manufacturing, selling and offering for sale intoxicating liquors, and the jury found defendant guilty as indicted.

Com. vs. Jack Martin was the last criminal case tried on charge of manufacturing, selling and offering for sale intoxicating liquors and the jury found defendant guilty as indicted.

The Grand Jury visited the Jail and Almshouse and reported finding seven prisoners in jail in fairly good health except one advanced in years. It was agreed the cells of the jail should be whitewashed, that the windows at the top of the corridor be fixed, so that better ventilation be had with safety, and that the broken cellar door in jail yard be repaired. The bedding in upstairs room intended for women was recommended to be repaired, and that the men spend only a reasonable amount of time in their cells. It was pointed out that between the front and back buildings the wall could be sealed from the jail yard and should be made safe.

The conditions at Almshouse were reported generally in good condition, except the cement floor is in bad condition and needs repairs and that repairs are needed to porch floors. The linoleum in hall in Old Ladies' Home was reported in bad condition and should be renewed. A spray for spraying the beds was asked for and a good able assistant to help in the work of the Old Ladies' Home.

Upon making return the Grand Jury was discharged with the thanks of the Court.

In the case of Com. vs. J. Bender and A. Wertz, defendants failed to appear and the recognizance for their appearance was forfeited.

Com. vs. Ben Saltzman, defendant failed to appear his recognizance in $200 was forfeited.

Bus Line To Serve York Springs And Hampton.

In the face of protests before the Public Service Commission at Harrisburg, from at least six different sources, Charles N. Dicks, of Hampton, Adams County, applied for permission to operate a bus line between Carlisle, Cumberland County, and Hanover, York County, for the transportation of passengers and freight.

Later he agreed to change his plans for establishing the service when the case was called on Thursday. Protests were filed by the Philadelphia and Reading Railway, the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Hanover Traction Company and several individuals who operate busses on parts of the route named by Dicks in his application for a certificate of public convenience.

The applicant agreed not to haul passengers and freight locally between Carlisle, Mt. Holly and Cross Keys and Hanover. These are points already served by other interests.

Mr. Dicks stated he proposed to make two round trips daily between Carlisle and Hanover. The largest settlements through which his line would pass are York Springs and Hampton, this county, which is practically shut off from the outside world save for automobiles. Dicks has already ordered a large bus to care for traffic.

Thursday evening, November 22nd, Adams County farmers will be given an opportunity of hearing Mr. Petet in the court room at Gettysburg. The meeting is scheduled for 8:00 P. M.

Mr. Petet, Head of the Cooperative Marketing Department of the American Farm Bureau Federation, is regarded as one of the outstanding authorities on cooperative marketing in the United States. He has assisted in setting up farmers' marketing organizations in twenty-five states of the Union.

This meeting is open to all persons interested in marketing of agricultural products. Orderly and systematic marketing of agricultural commodities is commanding the attention of farmers throughout the country. Adams County farmers are extremely fortunate in having Mr. Petet meet them and should avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing him.

Co-Operative Marketing by Farmers.

When Clarence Klein, 22 years of age, of Hanover, an employee of the Hanover Power Company, leaned against the limb of a tree to adjust his belt while up a service pole in Littlestown, the limb broke and Mr. Klein fell a distance of twenty feet. His head struck against the curb and he was unconscious when picked up. The mishap occurred in front of the Joseph Cratin residence, East King street, Tuesday afternoon. Dr. H. S. Crouse who was summoned, rendered first aid and the injured man was rushed to the Annie M. Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, where he remained in a state of coma throughout the night. Wednesday morning Mr. Klein's condition permitted the taking of X-ray photographs, which revealed a fracture of the skull. He has so far recovered that it is expected to remove him to his home this week.

ARMISTICE DAY NOV. 11, '23

NOTABLE BY RADIO MESSAGE FROM EX-PRESIDENT WILSON.

Twenty Thousand People Gathered About the Wilson Home Last Sunday Afternoon.

Radio Message.

The text of ex-President Wilson's Armistice address by radio was as follows:

"The anniversary of Armistice Day should stir us to great exaltation of spirit because of the proud recollection that it was in our day, a day above those early days of that never-to-be-forgotten November which lifted the world to the high levels of vision and achievement upon which the great war for democracy and right was fought and won; although the stimulating memories of that happy time of triumph are forever marred and embittered for us by the shameful fact that when the victory was won—won, be it remembered—chiefly by the indomitable spirit and valiant sacrifices of our own inconquerable soldiers—we turned our backs upon our associates and refused to bear any responsible part in the administration of peace, or the firm and permanent establishment of the results of the war—won at so terrible a cost of life and treasure—and withdrew into a sullen and selfish isolation which is deeply ignoble because manifestly cowardly and dishonorable.

"This must always be a source of deep mortification to us and we shall inevitably be forced by the moral obligations of freedom and honor to retrieve that fatal error and assume once more the role of courage, self-respect and helpfulness which every true American must wish to regard as our part in the affairs of the world.

"That we should have thus done a great wrong to civilization at one of the most critical turning points in the history of the world is more to be deplored because every anxious year that has followed has made the exceeding need for such services as we might have rendered more and more evident and more and more pressing, as demoralizing circumstances which we might have controlled have gone from bad to worse.

"And now, as if to furnish a sort of sinister climax, France and Italy between them have made waste paper of the Treaty of Versailles and the whole field of international relations is in perilous confusion.

"The affairs of the world can be set straight only by the firmest and most determined exhibition of the will to lead and make the right prevail.

"Happily, the present situation in the world of affairs affords us the opportunity to retrieve the past and to render mankind the inestimable service of proving that there is at least one great and powerful nation which can turn away from programs of self-interest and devote itself to practicing and establishing the highest ideals of disinterested service and the consistent maintenance of exalted standards of conscience and of right.

"The only way in which we can worthily give proof of our appreciation of the high significance of Armistice Day is by resolving to put self-interest away and once more formulate and act upon the highest ideals and purposes of international policy.

"Thus, and only thus, can we return to the true traditions of America."

On Sunday afternoon full 20,000 people sought the Wilson home in Washington, among them at least 5,000 disabled War Veterans.

Senator Glass, of Virginia, voiced the sentiment of those present in his address to Mr. Wilson, saying:

"I need not tell you, Mr. Wilson, what a happy privilege it is to make the salutation of this great throng of your friends and fellow citizens.

"You will readily understand that we were prompted in large measure to come here by the genuine affection we feel for you and by our admiration of your achievements as President of the United States and Commander-in-Chief of the nation's forces in the supremest crisis of its existence.

"But above and beyond this we are here to renew our faith and to signify the unabated loyalty of millions of Americans to that immutable cause which you, more than any other man on earth, so impressively personify. (Great applause.)

"To you, sir, it must be a source of infinite satisfaction to observe on each recurring anniversary of Armistice Day that the American people of all persuasions are coming more and more to realize what a shocking mistake it was to have permitted a conspiracy of racial animosities and selfish politics to cheat this nation of honorably participating in that permanent guaranty of peace for which our boys died and the country sacrificed. (Applause.)

"A great deal, divinely inspired, sometimes finds its surest test in contrasts and has its feasibility quickly determined by events. So, if the League of Nations as you conceived it has done well without the aid of or countenance of this powerful republic, of what inestimable value to civilization it would have been in those fateful years had we not with-

THE RED CROSS ROLL CALL

PRESIDENT OF UNITED STATES ASKS FOR YOUR DOLLARS.

The Wonderful Help of Your Dollar Makes The Most Inviting Appeal.

President Coolidge urges the American people to answer the Red Cross call for members at $1 in following statement:

"As President of the United States of America and as President of the American National Red Cross, I hereby designate Nov. 11, Armistice Day, to Nov. 29 as the period of the annual Red Cross Membership Roll-Call, and I appoint Nov. 11 Red Cross Sunday, and recommend that our churches dedicate that day to a thoughtful and prayerful consideration of the privilege and duty of consecrated service to humanity.

"During the World War the volunteer effort of the American people to assist the Government in providing for the welfare of our military and naval forces at home, on the seas, and overseas, was expressed largely through the American Red Cross, which also rendered incalculable assistance to the armed forces of our associates in the war and to their civilian populations within the invaded areas during and after the war.

"The recent calamity which befell Japan, when millions of her people suffered dire distress following the earthquake, has served again to reveal to the people of the nation the readiness of the American Red Cross to respond immediately for service in a great emergency and to apply the generous gifts of our people to the amelioration of human suffering.

"In rendering assistance wherever duty calls, the American Red Cross, in addition to its work in foreign lands, administers relief in times of disaster in our own country, helps to solve the problem of public health, is ever active in humanitarian projects and, above all, renders welcome assistance to the Government in the care of our disabled veterans of the World War.

"Through its charter granted by Congress, the American Red Cross is charged with specific duties in relationship with the army and navy and with the people at large in periods of emergency and distress, and it has never failed to perform these duties. Since the war, and as a result of experience acquired in the war, it has expanded its welfare operations in all regions of our country.

"The Red Cross seeks only to serve, not to usurp the prerogatives of other institutions or governmental authorities, but to co-operate with all others in service to humanity.

"It is upon popular membership that the American Red Cross relies for strength of organization and for funds to carry on its work which is so essential to the good of our country, and it is a privilege to our people to hold membership in and have a part in the work of this truly American organization. I therefore urge a renewal of all present memberships and enlistment in the American Red Cross by all not now members."

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

American Red Cross Appeal.

The American Red Cross will spend approximately $12,000,000 in humanitarian service during the current fiscal year ending June 30, 1924. The budget for carrying on the national and international program specifically allots $5,543,077.81 for the work of advancing the welfare of people and communities through American Red Cross services, according to a statement from the National Headquarters. The remainder of the money will be spent locally by the 3,000 chapters of the organization.

American Red Cross resources, it is pointed out, are not held to a hard and fast budget when calamity befalls a people. For example, the Japanese earthquake disaster of Sept. 1 when President Coolidge directed that the Red Cross should be the agency through which American contributions were to be administered, called for a large and varied service.

Not one dollar of the $11,000,000 contributed will be spent by the Red Cross for the administration of this large operation. All such expenses will be met from Red Cross funds.

The national budget for the year, excluding the Japanese operation, cuts $1,105,570.41 from the total of last year's expenditures, which reached $6,738,448.22. This reduction is due to the completion of large foreign operations. The extensive relief accorded nearly 900,000 refugees driven out of Asia Minor last year cost the Red Cross $2,605,696. For the purchase of medical and hospital supplies for relief work in Russia $1,840,754.67 was spent. In helping Russia the American Red Cross in the last two years administered in all $3,022,040.63.

Helps to Ex-Servicemen.

Disabled ex-service men and their families have first call on Red Cross funds, including services for 34,000 men shattered by their war experiences still in Government hospitals, while over 40,000 others constantly apply at Government institutions for treatment. In addition 73,000 veterans are taking vocational training, while thousands of former soldiers traveling from place to place; are proving to be a serious problem and burden of care to local Red Cross Chapters. The work for these men and their dependents covers a wide variety of services which the Government is not authorized to render and for which it has neither money nor facilities.

For Red Cross assistance to the veterans of the World War, the budget carries $2,605,834.20, an increase of about $120,000 over the amount spent from the national funds last year. The money expended by the chapters in helping ex-service men along the road to full rehabilitation approximates $4,000,000 each twelve months, hence it is evident that in soldier service the Red Cross will continue to spend approximately $6,600,000 each month.

In the 2666 chapters throughout the United States rendering assistance to veterans, the American Red Cross has the equipment to give attention to the individual man, help him solve his problems and difficulties, provide for his immediate necessities, and relieve him of worry over his dependents. Similarly this service goes out to the enlisted forces of the regular army and navy.

Engagements in the domestic field of the American Red Cross are increasing as foreign activities are becoming normal. For the first time in five years the budget for foreign operations has dropped below $1,000,000. Of the $906,628.11 appropriated for foreign work this year $120,000 will be devoted to assisting chapters in insular territory and foreign lands, and $101,500 for foreign projects of the American Junior Red Cross, which is composed of nearly 5,000,000 children in 24289 American schools.

One hundred thousand dollars for the liquidation and completion of general relief abroad, in addition to the $394,303.91 allotted to close the work in Greece; $180,000 for support of the League of Red Cross Societies, and $108,212.20 to aid nurses' training schools in Europe complete the budget for foreign operations.

Relief in Disasters Here.

Disaster relief in the United States is foremost in the industry of the Red Cross. Because of its emergency character, the budget figure for this service, $300,000, is regarded as elastic. For service in a recent devastating fire at Berkeley, Cal., $60,000 for relief and rehabilitation was spent within two weeks. For service and assistance to the chapters, numbering 3,000 in the United States alone, the budget carries $1,282,524.20. This is $60,000 above last year's expenditure for this purpose.

Other outstanding items of the domestic program are $80,000 for assistance to co-operating organizations, including child health demonstrations; $93,100 for Junior Red Cross projects and service; $309,020 for hospital and other service to the army and navy; $150,000 for emergencies in chapter work; $100,000 for unforeseen contingencies, and $222,014.50 for supervision of service activities and general management.

The budget for domestic operations provides also for the maintenance of the Red Cross national nursing service, which includes public health nursing, instruction of women in home hygiene and care of the sick, and instruction in nutrition. Instruction in first aid to the injured and water first aid to prevent death by drowning are constantly expanding activities. In volunteer service 1,154 chapters are steadily engaged.

In appealing for a large membership enrollment during the roll-call period, Nov. 11-29, the American Red Cross emphasizes the necessity of continued support of the organization, which is dependent upon its membership for carrying out its broad program and for the maintenance of a condition of efficient readiness to answer the call for help in any emergency and to meet every demand for funds and for the capable and effective administration of relief activities.

DR. ALFRED CURTIS RICE

SUCCUMBS AFTER FIVE DAYS' ILLNESS FROM PNEUMONIA.

Funeral Largest Held in McSherrystown For Years With 35 Priests in Attendance.

Dr. Alfred Curtis Rice, whose death we briefly noted last week as an attack of pneumonia after a brief illness of less than five days. He had attended professional duties as late as Monday and early Friday morning saw the end at the age of 47 years, 3 months and 14 days. Dr. Rice will be remembered for the work he did two years ago in fighting successfully the plague of diphtheria which broke out in his town, using every means known to medicine, to overcome the epidemic.

There are few homes in McSherrystown to which he has not at some time been called, and it can further be said that when a call came, Dr. Rice knew no distinction between old or young, rich or poor, he was always ready to respond night or day.

Dr. Rice was the eldest son of the venerable Dr. George L. Rice and the late Annie M. Brooks Rice, and was born in Baltimore, Md. When he was one year old the family moved to McSherrystown, where the remainder of his life was spent. After attending the parochial schools of McSherrystown, his preliminary education was obtained at Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md. He then entered the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Baltimore, Md., from which institution he was graduated in 1897.

Returning to his home he entered upon the practice of medicine with his father, and a year later he opened an office of his own, and in a few years built up an extensive practice.

Aside from his profession, Dr. Rice was always interested in the progress of his town. He was a former member of the McSherrystown Town Council for a number of terms; President of the McSherrystown School Board and on Tuesday of last week was re-elected a member of the Town Council. He was on the surgical staff of the Annie M. Warner Hospital, Gettysburg; a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, No. 1018, and Loyal Order of Moose, No. 720, of McSherrystown; Lodge No. 871, Knights of Columbus, of Hanover; Conewago Council Catholic Benevolent Legion No. 625, and Holy Trinity Beneficial Association of McSherrystown. He was also a life-long and consistent member of St. Mary's Catholic Church, McSherrystown.

Dr. Rice was twice married, his first wife being Miss Caroline McKinney, a daughter of Veteran Joseph G. McKinney. After her death he was married to Miss Violet Smith, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Smith, who survives; also the following children: Cyril Rice, formerly of the U. S. Battleship "Maryland" now located in New York City; Miss Eileen Rice, trained nurse of New York City; Rodney R. Rice, of the Medical Department U. S. A., at Fort Huston, San Antonio, Texas; George, Carroll Leonal, Leon, and Loretta, at home, all children of the first marriage, and Perpetua, Evangeline, Francis N., George L. and Anna Louise, the latter an infant, all at home, the children of the second union.

His father, Dr. George L. Rice, and stepmother, Mrs. Sallie C. Rice, also survive; and a brother, Rev. Fr. George L. Rice, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, New Oxford; a half-brother, J. Enders Rice, of York; a sister, Mrs. Annie R. Rogers, of Harrisburg; and the following brothers: Gerald Leo, of Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg; Reginald M. Rice, of the Department of Surgeons' Office, Fort Santiago, Manila, Philippine Islands, and Muriel C. Rice, at home.

The funeral was held on Tuesday morning and was the largest held in his town for years. Clad in the garments of the church and with an assemblage of 35 visiting priests within the sanctuary rail, including the Bishop of the Harrisburg Diocese, Rev. Philip R. McDevitt, D. D., who delivered the Absolution of the Body, Rev. Fr. Rice then sang the Solemn High Mass of Requiem very impressively. He was assisted by Rev. Leo B. Krichten, as Deacon; Rev. W. Burke, Sub-Deacon, and Rev. Leo Krichten, Master of Ceremonies.

Following the Mass and the Absolution of the body, the pastor of the church, Rev. Dr. L. Aug. Reudter, preached a brief sermon and eulogy. He said in part: "Justified are the tears we are shedding today as we are about to consign to the earth one of our best citizens. Dr. Rice in his profession as a physician was truly of the very best type of humanity, serving this community over 25 years in season and out of season, ever ready to respond to calls. Never complaining, he hastened to attend his patients, when he himself needed attention. Doing this he was stricken very suddenly, almost like a stroke of lightning."

During the service Miss Marie Weaver, soprano, sang very effectively "My Loved One Rest," and in concluding the service, Miss Mary Bunt rendered Schubert's "The Last Greeting," with Miss Helen Johns at the organ. At the grave on the family lot in Mt. St. Mary's cemetery, North Street, the clergy sang "The Benedictus."

In the sanctuary were the following clergymen: Bishop McDevitt and his secretary, Rev. Fr. John Stanton, Rev. J. Schmidt, Rev. R. H. McLaughlin, Rev. Leo Krichten, Rev. J. J. McBible, Ala.; Rev. T. J. McEntee; Rev. Gov. Rev. John Smyth, and Rev. W. Bailey, Harrisburg; Monsignor, B. J. Bradley, President of Mt. St. Mary's College; and Rev. Dr. Peter Coad, Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg; Rev. W. Malan, of Mo. M. J. Saffery, Rev. J. N. Whalen, and Rev. H. Fischer, of Lancaster; Rev. Anthony L. Toppens, Hanover; Rev. George Breckeb, Rev. H. J. Howarth, held our sympathy and deserted our allies of the great war! (Applause). "If a nation could be drawn back from the brink of despair, as in the case of Austria; if provocations to war could again and again be composed between other nations; if co-operation in problems of gravest concern to the human race could be secured by the League despite our forbidding policy of isolation, what might have been accomplished had America given heed to your wise counsel, and taken the imposing place which still awaits her coming!"

His parents first settled in Franklin county, but later moved across the mountains, and settled in Buchanan Valley, where Mr. Kimple was engaged in farming and lumbering the balance of his life. ARMISTICE DAY NOV. 11, 1923. (Continued from page 1).

"But we are beginning to see the dawn. Even acquisitive materialism is following in the kindly light of spiritual leading, and isolation today is bitterly accused of our diminishing commerce and menacing surplus. Soon we shall be compelled to put aside the covert and feeble civilities of an unofficial observer and to reveal our identity as a nation which means openly to take its part and give direction to things that involve the security and happiness of all mankind. (Applause)."

"It is vastly more important to help reconcile a world estranged than it is to sit longer in abject dread of those who rejoice in the guilty appellation of 'irreconcilables.' Plain people increasingly appreciate this; and soon we shall come to celebrate Nov. 11, not in a spirit of triumph and not in a mood of remembrance. We shall come, Mr. Wilson, to acclaim Armistice Day as the prelude, if not the exact beginning, of an era which will mark the nearest approach in the centuries to the Christian aspiration of 'Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men.' And then, sir, as an incident inseparable from this ceremonial occasion, we will stand uncovered before him to whom, through the goodness of God, will belong the most enduring honor." (Great applause).

Mr. Wilson's Address.

"Senator Glass, ladies and gentlemen," began Mr. Wilson, after the great applause had subsided when he appeared on the balcony of his home. "I am, indeed, deeply touched and honored by your extraordinary exhibition of your friendship and confidence."

"And yet, I can say without affectation, that I wish you would transfer your homage from me to the men who made the armistice possible. It was possibly because our boys had beaten the enemy to a standstill. You know, if you allow me to be didactic for a moment, 'armistice' merely means 'standing of arms.' Our late enemies, the Germans, call an armistice 'waffenstillstand'—an armed standstill—and it was the boys that made them stand still. (Laughter and applause). If they had not, they would not have listened to proposals of armistice."

"I am proud to remember that I had the honor of being the Commander-in-Chief—(A Voice: The best one on earth)—of the most ideal army that was ever thrown together—pardon my emotion—through the real fighting Commander-in-Chief was my honored friend Pershing, whom I gladly hand the laurels of victory."

"Thank you with all my heart for your kindness."

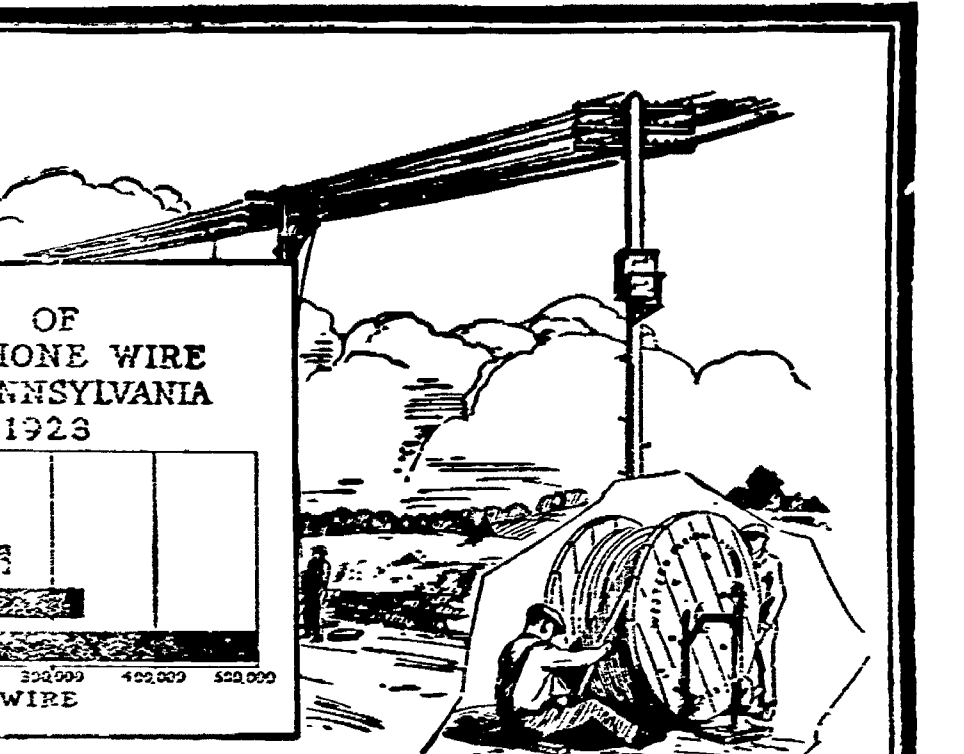

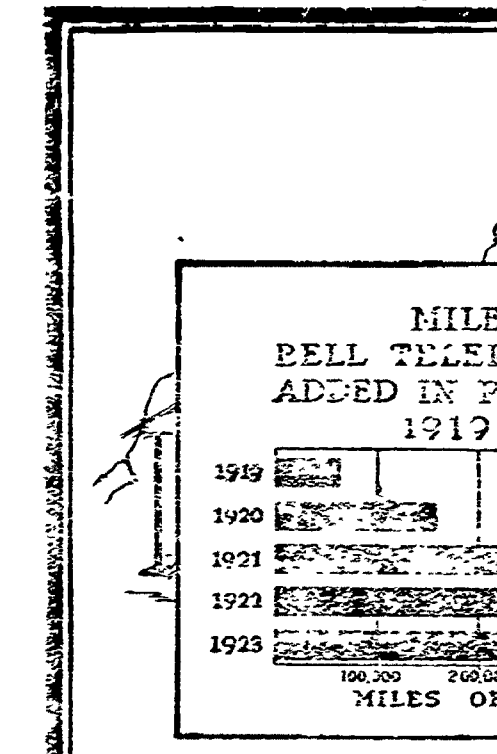

One standing near the former President heard him murmur: "That's about all I can do," as he finished his speech.

Great applause followed, and the band began playing, when Mr. Wilson raised his hand and said: "Just one word more. I cannot refrain from saying it: 'I am not one of those that have the least anxiety about the triumph of the principles I have stood for. I have seen fools resist Providence before and I have seen their destruction, as will come upon these again—utter destruction and contempt. That we shall prevail is as sure as God reigns. Thank you.'"

Armistice Day in Gettysburg.

Armistice Day in Gettysburg was marked by a noon day exercise in the Square attended by the American Legion boys and many citizens. Rev. W. C. Robinson who was Master of Ceremonies, offered prayer. I. L. Taylor led the singing of "America." Dr. A. E. Wagner pronounced the benediction, and Rev. N. L. Horn made the following address:

"Armistice Day, November 11, 1923, is of special significance because of the important matters which challenge our attention and test our patriotism. "The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ of America challenge the people of our land, through the churches, to give proper attention to the great impending issues involved in international relations. Special attention is also called to the fact that on this day begins the Roll Call of that great national institution in whose splendid activities Americans may take justifiable satisfaction—The Red Cross. I take this opportunity to sound forth the opening note of that campaign in which every true American should take his right part. "Preeminently we assemble on this memorable occasion to render a fitting memorial to our heroic dead who made the supreme sacrifice, in the interest of world freedom and justice, during the great World War. Our attitude on such an occasion should be one of deep reverence and sincere gratitude. "The significance of this occasion is rightfully understood only when we go back five years in the world's history. "In the great city of Paris, in front of the famous Hotel des Invalides stands a big railroad car. Across the broad side are the words, 'The car in which the Armistice was signed, November 11, 1918.'"

Half a Million Miles

To the moon and back again with enough left over to wrap around the earth.

That's how much new wire is being added to the Bell System in Pennsylvania this year.

And in 1924 we expect to add 630,000 miles.

New buildings are being constructed, twenty-two of them, thirty large additions to other buildings, ten millions of dollars' worth of new switchboards and Central Office equipment, seventy-six thousand new telephones.

Factories are working day and night, train after train is handling the equipment.

To what end?—That the telephone system in this state may keep pace with the needs of the people.

The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania

H. F. Bollinger, Manager

ONE POLICY, ONE SERVICE, AND ALL DIRECTED TOWARD BETTER SERVICE

"Here, in America, we hold sacred a particular bell-known to us and the world as 'The Liberty Bell.' To the French this railroad car is the most historic car in the world. For in that railroad car, seated around a big table, sat those mighty war leaders who signed that significant document which ended the most terrible combat recorded in the history of mankind."

"What hysterical joy swept across the nations, what a thrill of enthusiasm arose in every quarter of the globe, what signs of relief found full expression in every home, when these mighty war leaders, grave and worn, holding in their hands the happiness of nations, signed that memorable compact! Then we knew that our millions of boys were no longer to be exposed to sudden death! Then great hopes and expectations loomed upon the horizon! But alas! After five weary years, since the Armistice, the millennium has not come. The world has not been guaranteed permanent peace."

"The challenge comes to us today, as we are here assembled, with a louder and more forceful appeal than ever before, to keep faith with those who fell on Flanders Field! It is for us, the living, to properly commemorate the heroism and sacrifices of our soldiers, known and unknown! Today we paused in silence for two full minutes in their memory. Although two full minutes of silent prayer in honor of our heroic dead, known and unknown, is of great value, let it not be forgotten that we cannot limit our appreciation of their heroic services to two minutes of silent prayer. We the living, must keep faith with our dead! Where are those principles for which they fought and died? What of our fond hopes and aspirations? Have they not been fading? Have we played true to our heroic dead? To us they threw the torch to lift it high, while they sleep beneath the poppies in Flanders Field! Have we not played politics? For us the nation must be supreme! It is liberty, freedom and brotherhood that we must champion! Let political parties and their champions come and go! The integrity of our nation must stand! She must take her place today with the other nations of the world and play her rightful role in the creation of better understanding and cooperation among the neighborhood nations of the world!"

"Then, and then only, our heroic dead shall not have died in vain. "Indifference on our part as individuals and as a nation, to the great moral issues, to the establishment of permanent peace among the nations of the world, is an expression of antagonism. Let us not forget, on this memorable occasion, that the United States is facing a grave, moral crisis which involves the welfare of the entire world, as well as our own! "God, grant that we may keep faith with our heroic dead!"

Voices by Radio.

Voice transmission by radio waves has passed beyond the experimental stage. The United States bureau of standards says that it is now actually possible to telephone by wireless over as great a distance as by the ordinary wire.

It also states that the quality of the transmitted speech is as perfect as that which comes over the ordinary telephone and the same remark applies to music sent by radio.

This highest scientific authority expresses a belief that before very long communication across the Atlantic by radiophone will be established on a commercial basis. When that has been accomplished, a person in Philadelphia or New York will be able at any time to call up and converse with a friend or business acquaintance in London or Paris by paying a stated and moderate rate per five minutes of talk.

FEEL EVERY CHANGE OF THE WEATHER? A Bad Back is Usually Worse During Bad Weather.

Is your back like a barometer? Does it foretell every change of weather? Does every cold settle on your kidneys? Bring aching, throbbing, pains? Does it disorder the urine? Have you thought the kidneys may be calling for help? Thousands recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Gettysburg testimony proves their worth. Ask your neighbor. Mrs. F. M. Gilbert, 26 Breckenridge St., Gettysburg, says: "My kidneys were out of fix when a cold settled in them. My back was weak, which annoyed me and made housework burdensome. It was right across my kidneys that sharp, darting pains caught me when I stooped. It only took a little work to tire my back and very often it became lame and sore. My kidneys weren't in a healthy condition and I wasn't feeling well in any way. I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills through reading so much about them and as my trouble wasn't of a serious nature, it didn't take many of Doan's to drive the pains from my back and rid me of all signs of kidney complaint."
